1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hsu-U.S. Patent #6,089,089.

As to claims 1-13, as best understood, Hsu discloses a multi-element micro gyro with a closed-loop mode of operation in which misalignment is detected and the null position is maintained via electrostatic forces, see col. 4, lines 59 et seq. As to claim 2, as best understood, Hsu refers to reduction of quadrature error by position feedback compensation and synchronous demodulation. As to claims 5-7 Hsu disclose a correction section for frequency matching by application of an electrostatic force. As to claims 8-13 as best understood, see above rejection for claims 1-7.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Clark U.S. Patent #5,992,233.

Art Unit: 2856

As to claims 1-18, as best understood, Clark discloses a micromachined gyroscope including a sensing system to detect deflections along the Y-axis and to apply electrostatic forces to cancel any quadrature error, see col. 4, lines 52 et seq. Also, as to claims 5-18, the sensing system is also used to match (tune) the y-axis resonant frequency by using electrostatic "negative" springs by applying a DC bias voltage, see col. 9 et seq.

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 2-7, 12, and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As to claim 2, on the last line, "using a signal in quadrature to rate signal" is not understood. Also, "said drive axis" lacks any antecedent basis in claims 2 and 4 last line. As to claim 12, in lines 2-3, "said drive axis" lacks antecedent basis. In claim 15, "said drive axis" lacks antecedent basis. In claim 16, "each drive electrode" is unclear and "said drive axis" lacks antecedent basis. In claim 17, "a stiffness matrix K" is unclear.
